Dairy UK strengthens Scotland Director's role

Dairy UK is delighted to announce that Mr Kirk Hunter is to become its full time Scotland Director with effect from 17th May.

Mr Hunter had previously been employed as Chief Executive of Food Trade Association Management and in that capacity had worked part time for both Dairy UK and the Scottish Association of Master Bakers (SAMB).

Commenting on the appointment Jim Begg, Director General of Dairy UK, said "We are delighted to have secured the services of Mr Hunter on a full time basis. Kirk has extensive and invaluable knowledge of the dairy industry in Scotland and a proven track record of working with Government at the highest level. He will be a major asset, not only to our members in Scotland, but through involvement in Dairy UK's expanding portfolio of activities, to all of our members throughout the United Kingdom."

SAMB President Alister Asher added "We are extremely grateful to Mr Hunter for his significant contribution to the work of the Scottish Association of Master Bakers over the course of the last nine years. We wish Kirk every success in his full time position with Dairy UK and we look forward to the prospect of working with him again in the future on Scottish food industry projects."
